ROOSEVELV ACCEPTS PRE-NOMINATION

Swift Pace Of Events, Outside U.S. Influences President On Decision

Secretary Of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace Nominated By Convention To Run As Vice-Presidential Candidate

WASHINGTON, July 19.—President Roosevelt early today accepted the Democratic convention's precedent-breaking nomination to a third term.

In a radio address to the convention, the president stressed the swift pace of foreign events as influencing his decision to accept the party's call and attempt to shatter tradition.

Mr. Roosevelt declared he had made plans for a private life of his own choice to begin next January, at the conclusion of his second term.

"These plans, like so many other plans," he said, "had been made in a world which now seems as distant as another planet."

"Today, all private plans, all private lives have been repealed by an over-riding public danger."

"In the face of that public danger all those who can be of service to the public have no choice but to offer themselves for service in those capacities for which they may be fitted."

Decision Guided By Conscience

"These are the reasons why I have had to admit to myself, and now to state to you, that my conscience will not let me turn my back to a call to service."

He declared, however, that the right to make the call resides with the people through the American method of a free election and that only the people themselves could "draft a president."

"If such a draft should be made upon me, I say, in the utmost simplicity," Mr. Roosevelt said, "I will, with God's help, continue to serve with the best of my ability and with the fullness of my strength."

Mr. Roosevelt said he was submitting to the judgment of his countrymen all he had done to maintain the country's peace and to prepare it morally and physically for whatever contingencies might lie in store for it.

"We face one of the great choices of history," he said.

"It is not alone a choice of government by the people versus dictatorship."

"It is not a choice of freedom versus slavery."

"It is not alone a choice between moving forward or falling back."

"It is all of these rolled into one."

Pleased At Wallace Nomination

"It is the continuance of civilization as we know it versus ultimate destruction of all we have held dear—religion against godlessness; the ideal of justice against the practice of force; moral decency versus the firing squad; courage to speak out, and to act, versus the false lullaby of appeasement."

The president spoke in a voice that seemed to be filled with emotion. He delivered his address within a few minutes after the convention had nominated Henry A. Wallace, his secretary of agriculture, to run as the vice-presidential candidate.

Into his prepared address, he interpolated an expression of gratification that Wallace had been nominated. He said the agriculture secretary had a "first-hand knowledge of the problems of government in every sphere of life, in every part of the country."

He spoke, too, of "my old friend, Jim Farley," sending him his affectionate greetings.

Declaring that a selfish and greedy people could not be free, the president asserted that the American people must decide whether these things were worth sacrifices of money, energy and self. He said they would decide on the record as it had been made and the record of "things as they are."

Conflict Of Desire, Conscience

Telling the convention that he was complimented by the honor done him, Mr. Roosevelt said he knew it would understand the spirit in which he said that "no call of party alone would prevail upon me to accept re-election to the presidency."

He continued by saying that he was speaking with a very full heart, and was torn by a conflict between a deep personal desire for retirement on the one hand and by "conscience" on the other.

It was his firm intention, he said, when he was elected to his second term in 1936 to hand over the responsibility of government to another at the end of that term.

Even when the war broke out in Europe last September, he asserted, it remained his intention to announce clearly and simply at an early date, that "under no condition

LOW DECLARES PROVINCE WAS REFUSED LOANS

Provincial Treasurer Of Alberta Throws Committee Into Tumult

OTTAWA, July 19.—Hon. Solon Low, provincial treasurer of Alberta, threw the Commons banking and commerce committee into a momentary tumult today when he claimed the federal treasury had refused loans to his province while aiding Saskatchewan, and had thus contributed to Alberta's default.

This was interpreted by several members as a charge of discrimination by the federal government, to which Hughes Cleaver (Lib. Hailton) objected.

Mr. Low said he was not charging discrimination but that the Bank of Canada had refused Alberta, while at the same time, under similar circumstances, had helped Saskatchewan meet a bond maturity.

AGREED TO HELP
Mr. Cleaver said the federal government had agreed to help all provinces if they would enter into a loan council scheme. Saskatchewan, he said, had "elected to default."

The arguments came during Mr. Low's recital of Social Credit administration of Alberta while the committee was considering the application for that province for a Dominion charter to operate a provincial bank.

The committee adjourned at noon to meet at the call of the chair probably next Tuesday afternoon.

The provincial treasurer said that whatever government took office in Alberta in 1935, "regardless of its political stripe," would have had to take the same action as that taken by the Social Credit government.

Mr. Low continued his recital of the fiscal administration of the world's first Social Credit government.

JAPAN PLANS UNDERSTANDING WITH BERLIN

TOKYO, July 19.—The inner government of the new Komei cabinet, reached a decision today on relations with Italy and Germany and informed quarters claiming that calls for closer working arrangement with the axis.

These sources said the question of whether the Netherlands East Indies and French Indo-China would be taken under "protection" still was under discussion.

It was considered certain that Japan first will attempt to reach an understanding with Berlin on any action in the South Seas.

MOSCOW, July 19.—The Communist party newspaper Pravda said today that Japan with her new government under Prince Komei is under an "open dictatorship" of the military party. In an article analyzing the new cabinet Pravda said that it foreshadowed "new and obviously serious movements both in the internal and foreign policy of Japan."

Embassy Closes

LONDON, July 19.—The French embassy closed today and members of the diplomatic staff, including the charge d'affaires, the Marquis De Castellane, left for France.

2ND VICTIM OF ASSAULT DIES FRIDAY

Aged Widower Succumbs Following Brutal Attack In His Home

Death claimed another Edmonton victim following a mysterious assault when John Kelly, 78, 1045 98 street, died in the Royal Alexandra hospital early Friday from pneumonia which developed while he was receiving treatment from injuries at the hands of an unknown would-be robber, who entered his home on the morning of Thursday, July 11.

On the night of June 29 last, Herman McGlone, 59, farmer of the Lac La Biche district, received fatal injuries in an assault by two unidentified men who attacked him at 97 street and 104 avenue.

Inquest in the Kelly case has been set for 11 a.m. Saturday at Andrews funeral chapel. It was announced by Det. J. MacDonald, corner's officer. A jury will be sworn in for the purpose of identifying the body, after which an indefinite adjournment of the inquest will be made. Post mortem into the cause of death was being conducted Friday.

Kelly, a former C.N.R. section foreman, told police he was attacked by a man who entered his home on the morning in question, under an assumed name, by enemy action 400 miles east.

CRACK ITALIAN SHIP SUNK BY H.M.S. SYDNEY

Enemy Cruiser Sent To Bottom In Clash With Aussie Boat

By SYDNEY WILLIAMS
British United Press Exclusive Cable To The Edmonton Bulletin
LONDON, July 19.—The Australian cruiser Sydney today sank the crack Italian cruiser Bartolomeo Colleoni northwest of the island of Crete and British forces pursued another Italian cruiser which fled the battle scene.

The Bartolomeo Colleoni, world's fastest cruiser, with a speed of 40 knots, had the same six-inch gun armaments as the Sydney. A British destroyer rescued 250 survivors from its normal complement of 500.

The Sydney, completed in 1933, has the same name as a famous ship in the World War. It was the Australian cruiser Sydney which tracked down and sank the German sea raider Emden in the World War.

The battle northwest of Crete which began this morning when the Sydney, 22½ knots accompanied by a small destroyer force, encountered an Italian cruiser, was interrupted by Italian air and naval action in the Mediterranean which began July 8.

Then a strong British force, including battleships, an aircraft carrier, cruisers and a destroyer force, encountered an Italian force south of the toe of the Italian boot. The British, although heavily attacked by Italian airplanes, fired on and put the Italians until they found shelter under Italian coastal defenses. The British sank an Italian destroyer and heavily damaged an Italian battleship in the action.

The Bartolomeo Colleoni was the first cruiser to have been sunk by

TWO BRITISH SHIPS SUNK BY ENEMY RAIDER

Looking beyond the battle of Britain, commerce of which is being home each day by persistent Nazi raids, the army forecast the day when its troops will launch a counter-stroke against Germany.

For this blow, British and neutral military aid today, the army ministry said tonight, the army will be supported not only by the output of Britain's own factories and arsenals but by every gun, bullet, shell, tank and plane that can be brought from the United States.

"At present," the army minister said, "we are confident we have enough to hold Britain if need be."

MUST BE PREPARED

It is clear the army's feeling that the war may be settled in battle on the continent follows the lead of Prime Minister Churchill, who declared last Sunday Britain must prepare for battle "not only for 1941 but for 1942, when the war will, it is clear, be decided."

Hitler Makes "Peace" Bid

Fuehrer Is Seeking End Of Conflict On Germany's Terms

Blast Directed Against Churchill In Propaganda Packed and Carefully Prepared Speech

BERLIN, July 19.—Adolf Hitler today addressed what he called "a final appeal to reason" directly to Great Britain in an effort, he said, to "avert destruction of a great world empire whose destruction was never my wish or aim."

Hitler did not deliver an ultimatum to Great Britain in so many words, but in a propaganda packed and carefully prepared speech he directed a "blast" against Prime Minister Churchill and the British Empire in an apparent attempt to frighten the British people. Breathing "frightfulness" in every sentence he asserted that "a world Empire will be destroyed if Great Britain insists on continuing the war," and said that "British statesmen apparently have no conception of the total destruction which would be visited on Britain in a fight to the finish." The "peace," he intimated, must be on German terms.

Shouting, gesticulating, his voice rising to a hoarse crescendo, he was the Hitler of pre-Munich days. Hysterical, threatening, almost weeping at times, he was Hitler at his best—or worst.

"One thing is sure," he shouted. "No Churchill will be left for the rehabilitation of the world in the event of his threatened German 'blitzkrieg' coming to pass. This attack, he said, would be 'with all the forces at the command of Germany.'"

Hitler said that the sacrifices of the war were out of proportion to the alleged reasons for its outbreak. He referred to Germany's attempts to bring about revision of the Versailles treaty and said the league of nations had been "the guarantor" of "peaceful conditions imposed by that treaty."

LACKED LEADERSHIP

He said that in the pre-Nazi era the German empire lacked good leadership and it was only when he came to power that Germany came into its own again.

"The Nazis freed Germany from Jewish-capitalist and democratic bonds," Hitler said. "Powerless, we referred to Germany's attempts to bring about revision of the Versailles treaty and said the league of nations had been 'the guarantor' of 'peaceful conditions imposed by that treaty.'"

HITLER WILL CLAMP DOWN IN HOLLAND

By A. DOEPPNER
British United Press Exclusive Cable To The Edmonton Bulletin
THE HAGUE, July 19.—Germany henceforth will take reprisals for alleged mistreatment of German subjects in the Netherlands East and West Indies, it was announced today.

An official statement said Germany would act against certain persons now in Holland who are believed to represent certain ideas in Holland's overseas territories.

These persons, it was said, "will face the consequences" of the actions of the Dutch East and West Indies in connection with German concentration camps.

The statement, however, reported that German dispatches before Germany's conquest of Holland still are being sent in concentration camps.

Germans Renew Bombing Raids On Britain and Coastal Shipping

LONDON, July 19.—The air ministry announced tonight that eight enemy aircraft have been shot down by fighters and one by anti-aircraft guns during several attacks off the southeast coast of England during the day.

By NED RUSSELL
British United Press Exclusive Cable To The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, July 19.—German warplanes renewed heavy bombing raids on the British Isles and coastal shipping today but were badly battered by swift and terrific counter-attacks by British fighting planes and anti-aircraft batteries.

Six or seven German planes were shot down as the attacking craft ranged from the shores of Scotland where one child was killed and a number of other casualties resulted, to the southwestern coast, where six German Heinkel bombers were driven off by a tremendous anti-aircraft barrage.

While the speech of Adolf Hitler to the Reichstag in Berlin was awaited for a clue to plans for the long-thundered Blitzkrieg invasion of the British Isles, the German planes began coming over in small formations at a time to blast at the British defenses.

It was the most severe bombing attack since last week's series of raids by scores of planes.

The Germans sent their dive-bombers hurtling out of the clouds in attacks on shipping in the Straits of Dover.

In one assault six planes dived simultaneously into the face of a terrific anti-aircraft barrage from trust, take a different form from the defense.

This has been taken by all three fighting services as the keynote of their determination to settle accounts, as a naval officer expressed it, "for Dunkerque, Narvik, and our toll in civilian lives and homes from bombing."

"Germany will attack us," one military man said. "It will be a bitter battle in which she will lose enormously in men and materials. We expect such losses ourselves. We must make certain that when Germany is battered and worn after weeks and perhaps months of fruitless warfare against this island, we will have fresh guns, great stores of ammunition and hundreds of tanks and trucks to throw into an offensive of our own."

That is the day we will need everything we can buy from the United States. Possession of it will bring us much closer to final victory.

AIRFIELDS PROTECTED

Guns of all types are used in Britain now. To cover the coastline and important positions, and for other novel purposes. For instance, airfields which might attract German bombers, the troops carrying planes, are covered by batteries of heavy guns miles away.

Landing of the first German plane would be the signal for a terrific battle, which might result in officers' deaths, would churn the field into ruin, destroy any plane and kill the men aboard.

The fire of another cruiser since the war began.

Sinking of the Bartolomeo Colleoni was described as Italy's greatest single naval loss since the start of the war.

The Sydney is a vessel of 8,500 tons.

On paper the vessels were fairly evenly matched. Each man a war carried eight six-inch guns and the Sydney had a normal complement of 500 men. The Italian cruiser's normal complement was 500 men, but it was one of the fastest cruisers in the world, capable of a speed of 40 knots compared with the Sydney's 32½ knots.

The Colleoni was built in 1932 and the Sydney was completed in 1935.

The admiralty commander said: "The commander-in-chief of the Mediterranean fleet reports that H.M.S. Sydney, Capt. J. A. Collins, accompanied by a small destroyer force became engaged with two Italian cruisers early this morning northwest of Crete."

In the ensuing action the Italian cruiser was sunk. The other Italian cruiser withdrew with British forces in pursuit. A British destroyer recovered 250 survivors from the sunken cruiser."

HITLER MAKES "PEACE" BID ON HIS TERMS

the communication between Germany and East Prussia.

Hitler said he was making his "last appeal" to Britain for "peace."

"In this hour and before this body," the Nazi dictator told the Reichstag, "I feel myself obliged to make one more appeal to reason to England. I do this not as a victor, but for the triumph of common sense."

Two CARDINAL AIMS

Hitler said that his two cardinal aims were foreign policy had been friendship with Britain and with Italy.

"Despite my sincere efforts it has not been possible," he said, "to achieve the friendship with England which I believed would have been achieved by both."

Hitler spoke in the presence of the Reichstag. Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano.

"What is coming will visit the people and churches," Hitler said in caustic reference to the British prime minister and as a warning to the British people of the effects of a Hitlerkrieg attack.

NEVER WISH OR AIM

Hitler said "Churchill may think the outcome will be the annihilation of Germany but it will be the destruction of a great world empire—the destruction of which was never my wish or aim."

Turning again to the defence of his policy of the past Hitler said it had all been based "on a two-fold aim: real friendship with Italy and a similar relationship with Great Britain."

He could not understand why British statesmen had refused his advances.

"It would have been a boon to the policy of the England had accepted," he said. He declared that he "never intended to annihilate Germany, but to bring about a new world order," and said that even as late as September 2 war could have been averted.

"Muscle will be a proposal for peaceful negotiations," he said. "It was only the British war mongers who refused."

Referring to the alleged "secret" documents which have allegedly been found since Hitler's propaganda forger he said that on June 19, 1940, a German soldier "found" a document which was "a true and correct copy of the documents of the supreme Allied war council."

Hitler said that the British and French planned to use the small countries in the Balkans, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Finland, Denmark, Holland and Belgium.

gum were among these nations which were to be used for their own purposes. Hitler said:

"These same criminals were responsible for leading Poland into war," he declared. He recalled he had "warned" Britain and France after the Polish campaign "not to continue this war."

Hitler did not indicate what he expected Great Britain to do in response to his "peace offer," but he left no doubt in the minds of his hearers that "peace" would be on German terms.

As usual Hitler began his speech by assailing the terms of the Versailles treaty.

"The program of the Nationalist Socialist movement proclaimed to the world our determination to shake off the shackles of this treaty," he declared.

HAND PICKED AUDIENCE

And, as usual, the speech was delivered to a hand picked, regimented audience trained to roar approval at appropriate and dramatic times.

The Kroll opera house was a sea of brown uniforms sprinkled with the time and time again as he was trying to hammer home the fact that he, and he alone, was responsible for the new Germany.

At one time in his speech Hitler said "denial and mockery" greeted him since last August.

As a result, he said, France is now down and out and applying for aid to the United States.

The terrible misery which came over the French people, the misery of fugitives and evacuees, need not have come," he said, "as my offer was aimed at nothing but peace."

Hitler said Churchill might regard his present "appeal to reason" as a sign of fear, but he added:

"I have relieved my conscience toward the things that will come if this last appeal to reason is unheeded."

He said the end would mean only the "complete annihilation" of one of the other of the adversaries, and declared this would be Great Britain.

The home of Mrs. O. Molstad was the scene of a very pretty reception Thursday afternoon and evening, in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Waldemar Molstad who have just returned from their honeymoon trip to Banff and the coast. During the afternoon many guests called and "showed" the happy young couple with many beautiful gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Molstad left later for Lacombe where they will reside.

ELDERLY FARM COUPLE KILLED NEAR CALGARY

Meet Instant Death As Automobile Struck By Passenger Train

CALGARY, July 10.—An elderly Calhoun farm couple, on a holiday trip to northern Alberta, met instant death at 1 p.m. yesterday when their light coupe was struck and demolished by the Chinook, fast Calgary-Edmonton passenger train, at a crossing on the Edmonton trail half a mile into the northern Calgary city limits.

The victims, identified only by papers in their possession, were Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hipp, both aged about 60, of Calhoun, 12 miles east of Calgary.

The double tragedy brought an abrupt end to Calgary's second "leafless days" campaign, which had run 148 consecutive days. The only other fatality this year was also due to a passing train when John McLaughlin, Calgary, died Feb. 2 at his car was hit by a train at a crossing.

CASPER
Casper, D. George R. Johnson planned an inquest, but was unable to set a date. Police are attempting to locate relatives.

The fatality occurred at a level crossing as the speeding passenger train, which was carrying a half mile down the rails, jumped a high level crossing. The engine that cowboys had to be used to pry it off.

Sunshine Is Welcome Change To Large Crowd At Race Track

His Honor and Mrs. Bowen Occupy Government Box On Thursday

OLD TIMERS' Day at the Edmonton Exhibition claimed the interest of thousands of Edmonton citizens, on Thursday, when one of the largest and most colorful crowds were present to watch the races. The capacity audience in the grandstand, and the hundreds of visitors crowding the enclosure and the paddock were in happy mood, as the clear sunshine and bright sunshine came as a pleasant change from the rainy weather during the earlier part of the week.

Sporting tweeds, summer cottons and prints, colorful ensembles, and eye lozenges were the style mode for the many visitors prepared for any and all sorts of weather, and the constant sunshine above the world's miscellany of attractive outfits, as friends mingled in ever-changing groups.

His Honor John Campbell Bowen and Mrs. Bowen, and their daughter, Mrs. Ruth Bowen were in attendance at the races. For the occasion, Mrs. Bowen chose a navy blue summer frock trimmed with pink crepe. Her dove pink hat was trimmed with violets, and she wore a navy blue and white ensemble with touches of white as trimming and a white turban.

Others noticed at the race track were Hon. Lucien Maynard, and Mrs. Maynard, Alderman J. H. Ogilvie and Mrs. Ogilvie, Hon. Mr. Justice Ewing, Lt.-Col. E. Brown, M.M. Garrison, commandant, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Abbott.

Ticket to Hollywood

By W. H. PEARLS

CART OF CHARACTERS
FRANCIE WESTON—a girl with a voice and mannerisms of the movies.
GUSTY GARD—garage mechanic who can give out on a trumpet.
JERRY FINNEY—MovieLand's youngest glamour pup.

Yesterday, both Gusty and Francie claim the ticket and Francie is furious when Gusty photographs it. She rushes home, tells her father and Aunt Hat about the story. But Hat has her own idea about how to get the ticket and how to get to Hollywood.

CHAPTER III
BY PURELY AN ACCIDENT Francie reached the short-cut at the same moment as Gusty. An accident, however, involved precise timing and a knowledge of his habits. Gusty wore a suit of greasy khaki dungarees and a stinky felt skullcap perched on his black hair. "Hi-yah, Sugar," he bellowed. Francie jumped like a startled fawn. "Oh, hi, Gusty!" "In person." Francie drew a circle on the sidewalk with her heel pump. "Aunt Hat discovered we were out of coffee and—and—" "I know, Gusty, but it all happened so fast. I hardly knew what was saying!" He shoved the skullcap back on his head, quipped, "You're a funny girl, Francie." "Am I?" "Never mind," Gusty said, taking her arm. "I'll walk home with you." They talked away as they went. Gusty was playing a job that night. He'd worked out some new "licks" that would startle the world of music.

Francie didn't mention the ticket. At it, under Aunt Hat's tutelage, she was beginning to develop a "feel" for masculine behavior. Something told her that this was no time to attack Gusty's mind was full of music. For allies she needed moonlight, solitude and her loveless friend.

Arriving at the Weston's front porch, Francie said, "Gee, Gusty, I'd like to hear those swell 'licks'." "Would you?" he asked, surprised. "I thought you weren't going to speak to me again!" Francie moved closer to Gusty, tilting her head back so that her hair fell away from her lovely face. She widened her brown eyes just as she'd seen Maria Denning do in the last Jerry Finney picture. "That was last night, Gusty. Girls change their minds." "And how! Well, all right. I'll pick you up around 8." "I'll be waiting," Francie listed.

Never in her life had Francie taken such care in dressing. Aunt Hat, hovering in the background, poured out a steady stream of advice. It seemed odd to Francie to be doing all this for Gusty, who never noticed what she wore. But tonight she just had to make an impression.

Why, maybe her whole future depended on it. No doubt existed in her mind that once she'd rung from Hollywood her career was assured. And she reflected with a magnanimous glow she'd see that Gusty got his chance, too. This thought made her feel a little less guilty about using her wiles on him.

She put on the new blue dress which, somehow, matured her slender figure. She laced with her hair until it resembled a sheet of smooth, golden syrup. Presently Aunt Hat burst in with a bottle of French perfume. She touched the glass glimmer to Francie's hair and ears. Francie prayed that the generous amount of rouge and lipstick she'd used would escape Pope's keen eyes.

But he only gazed at her in quiet admiration and said, "Be home by midnight." And then as she went out on the porch, "Poor Gusty."

Duke Meyers' Kampus Wildcat played that night under a severe hat. No swing. The guests were practically aged, and at 11 the party broke up.

In the row of the 53 he had earned, Gusty was unhappy. "Corny stuff," he grumbled as they emerged from the ball. "Here I work up a lot of new 'licks' and can't use 'em."

Never mind, Francie soothed. "Everyone's ready to go home."

Gusty's old roadster was at the curb. The more matured her slender figure. She laced with her hair until it resembled a sheet of smooth, golden syrup.
